

UCEMA
Friedman Hayek Center
for the Study of a Free Society

Newsletter n°17, 23/04/2022

News and schedule of activities

NEXT WORKSHOP FRIEDMAN HAYEK CENTER – DR. ALEJANDRO CORBACHO – HYBRID MODE

The cycle of internal workshops of the Friedman Hayek Center continued this week with a presentation by Dr. Agustina Borella and Dr. Gabriel Zanotti, Academic Director of the Center, entitled “Introducción histórica a la Escuela Austríaca de Economía” (Historical introduction to the Austrian School of Economics). We congratulate them both for the variety of authors covered and the clarity with which the postulates and debates were presented.

The next edition of the Workshop will take place on Monday, May 16 at 3p.m. and will be given by Dr. Alejandro Carbacho, addressing the topic: “Evolución del Pensamiento Estratégico en las Relaciones Internacionales” (Evolution of Strategic Thinking in International Relations), we hope to count with your participation for this next date of the cycle.

The Friedman Hayek Center’s workshops this year will be held in hybrid mode. You will be able to attend them in person at UCEMA’s headquarters Av. Córdoba 374 or by connecting to the Zoom room which we will indicate nearer to the date of the event. We will be expecting you!

Naumann Chair- Visions for the Future of Democracy in the 21st Century

This presentation addressed the different ways in which democracy as a political regime has been developing up to the present, as well as the possibilities, alternatives opportunities and threats that it will face in the near future.

The conference took place today at 4 p.m. We are grateful for the support of the Friedrich Naumann Foundation for Freedom, Argentina, in the co-organization of the conference. You will soon be able to see the recording in the section dedicated to the Naumann Chair on the website of the Friedman Hayek Center.

Expositor Prof. Dr. Alexander Görlach

Alexander Görlach is a senior fellow to the Carnegie Council for Ethics in International Affairs. Holding PhDs in comparative religion and linguistics his work focuses on the future of democracy, narratives of identity, and politics and religion. He was a visiting scholar and fellow to both, Harvard University in the US and Cambridge University in the UK. He is a research associate at the Internet Institute at Oxford University where he looks into new technologies and how they are used in democracies and abused in dictatorships. In the academic year 2017-18 Alexander Görlach was a visiting scholar to National Taiwan University and City University Hong Kong. Since then he focuses on the rise of fascist China and what it means for East Asia and the free world altogether. His book publications include “Homo Empathicus: On Scapegoats, Populists & Saving Democracy” (Brookings, 2021) and “Focus Hongkong: Why The Future of The Free World Will be Decided in China” (Hoffmann&Campe, 2020). Alexander Görlach is amongst others an op-ed contributor to the New York Times and Neue Zürcher Zeitung. He is a columnist for Deutsche Welle and Wirtschaftswoche, Germany’s largest business outlet.

Papers, media articles and interviews

Edgardo Zablotsky

“Covid-19: el día después” (Covid-19: the day after), Perfil, April 19, 2022

Osvaldo Meloni

Economías regionales: que la pandemia no impida ver los problemas estructurales
(Regional economies: the pandemic should not blind us to structural problems), Proyección Económica, March 2022, pp. 52-75

Nicolás Cachanosky

“Dolarización: algunas lecciones internacionales” (Dollarization: some international lessons), in Infobae, April 10, 2022

Daniel Lema

“Más biodiésel es menos exportación de aceite de soja: ¿conviene?” (More biodiesel is less soybean oil export: is it worth it?), Puntal, April, 2022.

Until Tuesday, May 3, we will receive your news about activities, publications, calls and others to include in the next newsletter, thank you very much!

Friedman Hayek Center for the Study of a Free Society